After McDowell invited Laguna to fight in the Dowell invited Laguna to fight in the armory they had started through the Capitol Square, where the captain said that he had made a inistake in mixing personal with military alifairs, and declared that he would not right in the armory. It was then decided to spend the night in the armory building, as had been done before. He supposed Lguna and his friends had gone home. When the latter came he was surprised. No blows were struck, and in a few moments the police arrived. Private Clifford White related a controversy which Captain McDowell had with the policeman regarding who had authority in the armory.
